Workshop Description:

Many clinicians discover in the process of working with their clients that their client is exhibiting eating disorders behaviors, or the client may suddenly disclose they have an eating disorder that they have never talked about. If you have not worked with eating disorders, addressing and treating them can be anxiety producing. In fact, some may not be sure how severe the eating disorder is and may need to assess if their client needs a higher level of care. The situation may be even more complex if the client denies their eating disorder and/or refuses any treatment.

This course provides learners with assessment skills and tools to identify the warning signs of eating disorders. The session will also provide interventions and approaches in addressing eating disorders in your school and clinic. We will also address ethical and legal considerations in treatment including documentation, when to refer to a higher level of care and protecting your practice and clinic as well as provide pertinent cultural resources and advocacy information for eating disorders. All trainings are conducted in a safe, sensitive and personal environment, where people can bring their curiosity and experiences for sharing. People leave connected and empowered along with specific treatment ideas and tools.

Please contact us in advance if you require special accommodations on the day of the event.

Instructor Bio:

Marcella Raimondo, PhD, MPH, is a passionate and spirited clinical trainer speaking from her heart on multicultural issues in eating disorders. She has delivered over 100 clinical and community trainings since 1995. She received her B.A. from UC Berkeley, and Master's Degree in Public Health from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. She received my PhD in 2012 from Alliant International University in San Francisco, California.

She currently is a Clinical Psychologist (PSY # 27037) in Kaiser Permanente's eating disorder clinic in Oakland. She runs her own private practice in Oakland and also serves as adjunct faculty at UC Berkeley Extension Program. She is on the Advisory Board for the Association of Size Health and Diversity (ASDAH), Nalgona Positivity Pride (NPP) and on the conference committee for Binge Eating Disorder Association (BEDA). She is on the board for Eating Disorders Recovery and Support (EDRS) serving as the president for 2017/2018.

Marcella herself recovered from anorexia nervosa over 20 years ago. Her recovery with her martial arts training inspires her dedication to multicultural body nurturance and community celebration.

After attending this workshop participants will be able to:

1. Recognize signs & symptoms of eating disorders.
2. Summarize physiological and psychological effects of eating disorders.
3. Apply clinical treatment strategies with a focus on culturally appropriate approaches.
4. Identify pertinent community resources for diverse populations with eating disorders.
5. Address their own anxiety around eating disorders.
6. Protect their practice (legally and ethically) – i.e. when to refer to a higher level of care.
